

Maya Avitan is in her 4th year at Washington University, combining her B.S.B.A. in International Business with an M.A. in NonProfit Management. She is from Beachwood, Ohio, but has come to know St. Louis as home. Maya served as the Director of Services for the Congress of the South 40, worked as an academic mentor for Cornerstone, teaches Hebrew school and is involved with the Jewish community on campus. This coming year, she will be the Graduate Fellow for the Brookings Residential College.

She is researching the effects of empowerment and leadership on community development, completing most of her research in Israel, where she is analyzing a specific community building project.
