Save the Date!

Each fall in St. Louis, students, alumni and recruiters gather at a series of functional symposiums for professional development and discussion of industry trends. The evening events start with a company exposition, which is followed by a keynote address, panel discussion and networking reception.

Talent Summits bring our students and employer relations team to other cities for company visits, career development panels, networking receptions and interviews. Hosting students during a Talent Summit builds awareness for your company and gives you an opportunity to preview our talent on your home ground.

8 Steps to Successful Recruiting

We use CAREERlink, the NACElink Internet-based system, to manage the campus interview scheduling process.

Building Your Campus Presence

Participation in company information sessions, student club workshops, networking events, courses and panels supports your recruiting efforts by allowing you to meet students and generate interest about your employment opportunities before the interview process begins. We'll even tailor an event specific to your company. Here are some examples:

- General Electric sponsored a Practicum to evaluate the launch of its Monogram Ultra high-end appliance line in Dubai, United Arab Emirates.
- Monsanto, Edward Jones, Best Buy and Essilor presented live cases to our MBAs during ICE Week.
- Deloitte, Bain & Company and ExxonMobil presented case workshops and competitions in conjunction with their information sessions.
- Hewlett-Packard served as the platinum sponsor of the annual Olin Open golf tournament. The event includes career panels and a networking reception.
- Macy's held a "recruiter in residence" day that offered students the chance to have one-on-one interaction with and feedback from a campus recruiter.
- Kimberly-Clark sponsored a "lunch and learn" event on a current topic of interest to our MBA students.
